2. COMPREHENSION

A. REMEMBERING DETAILS

Read the summary of the story "Here Comes the Sun." There are eleven mistakes in the summary. Find the mistakes and cross them out. Write the correct words.

On a July morning in 1989, George Harrison was driving to Paris. He was driving to the Beatles' movie studio.

George didn't want to go to the studio because the Beatles didn't make music there. They talked about music, and they signed a lot of papers. That made George happy. The weather made him sad, too. It was cold, sunny, and rainy--a typical English summer day.

George drove to a friend's apartment. He was walking around the garden when the stars came out. George wrote the book, "Here Comes the Sun." It is the most streamed Beatles song.
